

A BRIAR PIPE WAS A WEAPON

Fond du Lac Murderer Surrendered To Man
With Simple Pipe In His Hand.

MAN CLAIMS TO HAVE BEEN INSANE

Physicians Claim That He Is Crazy, And His Attorney
Will Make This Plea When Case Comes Up For Trial.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Fond du Lac, Wis., June 2.—If Grant
Poole, who shot and killed Mrs. E.
H. Ory in the vestibule of the Methuist church at Oakfield Sunday morning, had not mistaken a briar pipe for a revolver he might not be in the county jail today.

When Poole was seen by Wm.
Brantz near Lakota Sunday he drew his briar pipe from his pocket and ordered Poole to surrender or he would shoot him. Poole threw down his revolver and said he would surrender if only Brantz would shoot him.
The physicians are inclined to believe the prisoner was insane at the time of the killing of the woman, but the feeling among the people in the village is that he was in a responsible condition when he fired the fatal shot.

After shooting his victim in the chest and abdomen Poole escaped by brandishing a revolver and walked several miles before he was captured.
He is still closely guarded, being brought to Fond du Lac for fear of lynching.

Poole claims that he knew he fired the shot, but that something hypnotic forced him to do it. He appears much afraid he will be killed by the people.

AN ALLEGED BURGLAR WAS MERELY DRUNK

Caught at Two o'Clock in a Residence
—His Attorney Says He Was Only Seeking His Brother's Home.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., June 2.—That he was drunk and made the mistake of getting into the wrong house is the explanation given by George Stevens-rud, arrested for burglarizing the home of Ernest Eckstedt, a Madison hotel proprietor. Eckstedt heard a stranger in his house after midnight, armed himself with a big bottle and captured the burglar. In order to bring up the thieves who have been stealing from a desk when caught, claiming it was all a mistake. He has secured an attorney and will stand trial.

Madison has suffered from a continuation of petty burglaries and thefts this spring, small crimes being reported to the police with almost daily frequency. In the arrest of Stevens-rud the police thought they might have the author of many of the offenses, but he is making a brave try to escape the penalty. In order to round up the thieves who have been stealing from a desk when caught, claiming
it was all a mistake. He has secured
an attorney and will stand trial.

YELLOW PROBLEM IS TROUBLING LONDON

Engagement of Chinese Crews on Ships Causes Serious Riots—Parliament to Investigate.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
London, June 2.—The problem of Asiatic labor, which has been a source of great trouble recently in Canada, Australia, South Africa and other parts of the empire, has now been brought closer home. At the present time there is serious trouble in the East End of London owing to the engagement of Chinese crews for British ships, and within the last week or two desperate riots have been prevented with the utmost difficulty.

The difficulty has arisen over the action of several shipping firms in engaging Chinese crews, to the exclusion of British and other European sailors, some hundreds of whom have not had a ship for months past.

The National Seamen's and Firemen's Union has taken the matter up and is picketing every shipping office where Chinese men are dealt with. In the House of Commons, Mr. Harcourt Wilson, one of the labor members and himself an officer in the seamen's union, asked the government for particulars in regard to the recent disturbances. Mr. Churchill in reply said that the recent unusual increase in the number of Chinese seamen shipments in the United Kingdom ports were receiving prompt and searching attention, and must be regarded as a matter of serious concern. Any case in which sufficient evidence was available of a boarding-house keeper having supplied a crew, Chinese or otherwise, would be considered with a view to legal proceedings.

The object of shipowners in shipping Chinese crews, the leaders of the union assert, is to have men serving whose accidents are not likely to lead to compensation claims. To this it is added that the Chinese on an average accept a lower rate of wages than the Europeans, as well as a cheaper dietary scale.

TO HAVE CLINICS IN EVERY DEPARTMENT

American Medical Association Opens 50th Annual Meeting Today in Chicago.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Chicago, Ill., June 2.—With clinics arranged for every department of medicine and surgery and with daily sessions planned for a dozen different sections the fifty-ninth annual meeting of the American Medical Association was opened in this city today with several thousand physicians and surgeons in attendance from the United States and Canada and many from abroad. For extensiveness of preparation and elaborateness of detail no such assemblage has been held in Chicago for many years.

The incoming delegates, many of whom were accompanied by members of their families, crowd the leading hotels of the city.

The work of the convention is divided among the house of delegates, which opened its deliberations yesterday and which transacts the business for the association, three general sessions of the association arranged for today and tomorrow, and the daily sessions of various departments, at

WANT MADISON MAYOR TO RUN AGAINST J. M. NELSON

Democrats Of Second District Are Bringing Pressure To Bear Upon Schubert.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., June 2.—Democrats of the second congressional district are bringing pressure to bear upon Mayor J. C. Schubert of Madison to become a candidate for the nomination for congress. It appears that notwithstanding the fact that Congressman John M. Nelson of Madison has many enemies in the republican party counties known throughout the six and has had the disadvantage of several long and bitter fights for postoffice appointments in the district, he will doubtless be renominated on the republican ticket, as there is only one candidate against him, Bryan J. Castro, chief clerk of the state land office. Mr. Castro is said to have little chance for the nomination. The democrats feel that they have a good chance of carrying the district, particularly if there be a warm fight for the republican nomination. They feel that Mayor Schubert would carry the city of Madison by a large majority, for he has twice been elected mayor by majorities never before equalled in a municipal campaign here. Both times he was vigorously opposed.

Mayor Schubert is exceedingly popular in the capital city and is well and favorably known throughout the six
and has had the disadvantage of several long and bitter fights for postoffice appointments in the district, he
will doubtless be renominated on the republican ticket, as there is only one candidate against him, Bryan J. Castro, chief clerk of the state land
office. Mr. Castro is said to have little chance for the nomination. The Henry, Ill., his former home, and later affiliating with the local lodge. The funeral services will be held at Jefferson at 3 p. m. on Thursday, June 4th.

Good Society.

Society stratifies itself everywhere, and the stratum which is generally recognized as the uppermost will be apt to have the advantage in easy grace of manner and in unassuming confidence, and consequently be more agreeable in the superficial relations of life. To compare these advantages with the virtues and utilities would be foolish. Much of the noblest work in life is done by ill-dressed, awkward, ungainly persons; but that is no reason for undervaluing good manners and what we call good breeding—truisms.

Anything—Almost.

"Mrs. Rockshor is a woman who seems to be willing to do almost anything for the sake of appearance."

"Yes—but she draws the line at wearing inexpensive hats for the sake of making her husband's trunk lighter when he has to face the assessor."

MINISTER WU.

Wu Ting-Fang, Chinese ambassador to the United States, possesses the faculty of getting frequently into the news dispatches. His latest effort is a dissertation on diet. Two years ago Mr. Wu gave up rich dishes for the simple but wholesome vegetarian diet. He is so thoroughly pleased with the result that he says he now expects to live for 200 years. His adoption of vegetarian diet was a process of elimination. He abandoned first one dish and then another. What broke his heart more than anything else was giving up tea drinking. Minister Wu is now strictly vegetarian in diet and decided.

What Is the Cause of a House Being Struck By Lightning?

This is an intelligent question. Let us be intelligent with it. To begin with, get this truth well planted.

"Before any lightning occurs, nature first prepares a class of conditions." Remember "Conditions."

These conditions are the storage of electric energy.

This accumulation of electricity is called a charge.

It first collects in the cloud, and tries to discharge to earth, but the ether air beneath the cloud is a very poor conductor of electricity and resists the discharge, and the charge continues to increase.

While this is going on in the cloud, the earth directly beneath the cloud becomes affected in sympathy with the cloud, and becomes electrified too, only in an opposite condition, and the electric stress on earth pushes toward the cloud, the same as the electric strain in the cloud pushes toward earth, but the air between resists, and the house standing on the earth sticks up through the air, and thus becomes the discharging point for the earth, and in this way the house is charged.

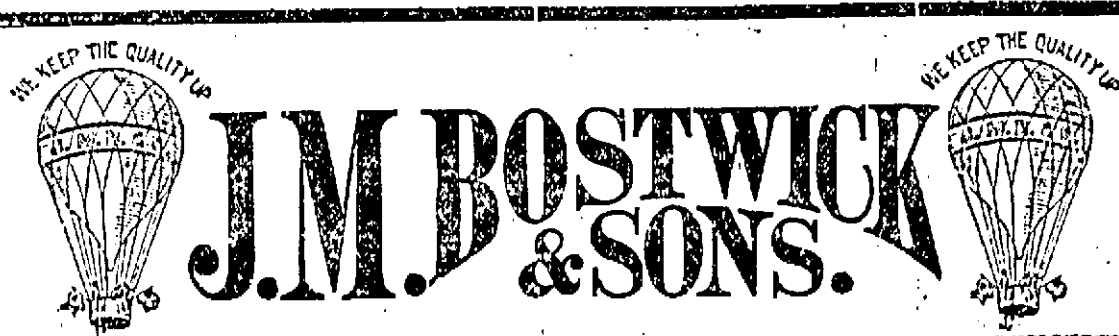

This in your philosophy is called "Induction"—the cloud inducing or causing a condition or charge into the house—and when the charge between earth and cloud becomes so great, the air can resist no longer, the conditions for lightning are ready, and off she goes. Your electrified house flies to pieces, and terror and death is the result.

Our pure copper lightning rods being a good conductor of electricity, carries off all electricity in your house, thus preventing the "conditions" for lightning, and therefore the destruction of your house is impossible.

Let us show you a miniature lightning storm, and show you how a house is struck by lightning, and then let us put on a small copper rod and show you how it carries off the electricity, making it impossible for the house to be struck because the conditions are not right.

This is a very interesting demonstration and we will be glad to show it to you.

JAMES K. JONES
DIES SUDDENLY

FORMER ARKANSAS SENATOR EXPIRES IN WASHINGTON.

LEADER OF DEMOCRACY

Sketch of His Career in the Senate and as Manager of William J. Bryan's Campaigns.

Washington, June 2.—Former United States Senator James K. Jones of Arkansas died at his residence here at 5:30 Monday afternoon after an illness of a few hours, aged 63.

He was one of the leading Democrats in the senate from 1885 to 1903, and was one of the strongest supporters of William Jennings Bryan, having, as chairman of the Democratic national committee, conducted the campaigns of 1896 and 1900. Since leaving the senate in 1903 he had conducted a law practice in this city and had not actively engaged in politics.

On Friday Senator Jones returned from a visit to his daughter, Mrs. Leonora Curran, in Arkansas and Sunday night was apparently enjoying good health. Complaining slightly Monday morning he remained in bed and late in the afternoon died, the immediate cause of death being heart failure.

Senator Jones' Career.

A native of Mississippi, where he was born in 1845, James K. Jones received a classical education, and fought as a private soldier in the confederate ranks throughout the civil war. After becoming a resident of Dallas county, Ark., he lived on his plantation there until 1873, when he took up the practice of law. He was elected to the state senate the same year and became president of that body in 1877. Afterward he was elected to the forty-seventh and in two succeeding congresses, and in 1885 succeeded to the seat of James B. Walker in the United States senate, where he served three terms, retiring in 1903.

Senator Jones was a delegate to the national Democratic convention of 1890 which gave Mr. Bryan his first nomination and as chairman of the committee on resolutions he reported the 16 to 1 platform. He was made chairman of the national Democratic committee after the convention and as such conducted both of the Bryan campaigns for the presidency.

Party Leader in Senate.

In the senate Mr. Jones came forward rapidly as one of the leaders of his party and was for several years chairman of the Democratic caucus. He was a member of the subcommittee on finance which reported the Wilson-Gorman tariff bill and was an earnest advocate of tariff revision. Although not an orator, Mr. Jones was a forceful and logical speaker and was often heard in debate.

Mr. Jones is survived by his widow and three children, Mrs. Curran of Arkansas, Miss Sue Jones and James K. Jones, Jr., of this city. He will be buried in this city and many of his former colleagues in congress who have not yet left the city will remain to attend the funeral.

WOMAN'S SLAYER IS JAILED

OAKFIELD, WIS., MAN WHO SHOT BANKER'S WIFE CAUGHT.

Suitor for Hand of Daughter Surrenders to Farmer—Was Once in Insane Asylum.

Pond du Lac, Wis., June 2.—Grant Poole, who shot and killed Mrs. E. H. Orvis at the Methodist church at Oakfield as the congregation dispersed from the services, was captured by a farmer named Morgan near the village of Ladoga, eight miles from Oakfield. Poole was turned over to officers and was at once brought to this city and landed in jail early Monday.

Poole had been madly in love with Grace Orvis, the daughter of the dead woman, and his attentions toward her have not been countenanced by the family of the young woman.

Five years ago Poole tried to commit suicide by shooting himself, but was prevented. He was arrested and sent to the state hospital at Oshkosh. He was at that institution for three years and was then paroled. He went home, and since then has worked on his father's farm. He was a visitor to the village every night, remaining there with relatives.

Miss Orvis was employed in the bank of Oakfield, and Poole hung about that institution a great deal, seeking to renew his attentions to the young woman.

His victim was 50 years old, and a daughter of Abel Bristol, the banker. Grace, the daughter, is 21. The Orvis family is prominent in the county, and Mrs. Orvis was the social leader of the village and highly respected.

MAURETANIA BREAKS RECORD.

Beats Mark Set by Her Sister Ship, Lusitania.

New York, June 2.—The Cunard liner Mauretania broke the record over the long course from Queenstown to this port, covering the distance in four days, 20 hours and 15 minutes, with an average speed of 21.86 knots, according to a wireless dispatch received by the Cunard line company from the steamship late Monday night.

The Mauretania's record is seven minutes better than the high record held by her sister ship, the Lusitania. The Mauretania, according to the wireless report sent by Capt. Pritchard, passed the Sandy Hook lightship at 7:50 Monday night. Her log showed that she made 435 knots Sunday, which is the best day's record ever made by a trans-Atlantic steamship. The record of the Mauretania is considered most remarkable in view of the fact that she covered the course with only three of her propellers in operation.

Queenstown, June 2.—The Lusitania of the Cunard line broke her east-bound record over the long course from New York to this port by two hours and 15 minutes, covering the distance of 2,932 knots in five days, four hours and 30 minutes.

Twenty-nine counts were contained in the three indictments and specifications were cited of alleged unlawful refunding of charges to customers. The officials of the company were cited to appear in court on June 15 and make answer to the charges.

TALK WITH TAFT
ABOUT PLATFORM

PARTY LEADERS CONFER WITH THE SECRETARY OF WAR.

WILL INDORSE ROOSEVELT

Candidate Ready to Pledge Himself to Follow the President's Policies—Tariff and Trust Planks.

Washington, June 2.—There will be no lukewarm indorsement of President Roosevelt and his policies, in the Republican national platform, if the wishes of Secretary Taft and his friends have potency in the framing of that document. This much was made known Monday after the first of a series of conferences to be held with the secretary of war on the subject of the platform.

Should the Chicago convention adopt this sort of platform and nominate Secretary Taft, it is predicted in authoritative quarters that his letter or speech of acceptance will contain a pledge to carry out the Roosevelt policies already inaugurated and earnestly strive for those not enacted, which will have a ring similar to that pronounced by President Roosevelt on taking the oath of office over the body of the dead McKinley.

Wade Ellis Consults with Taft.

Wade Ellis, attorney general of Ohio, who has prospects of being the Ohio member of the resolution committee of that convention and who was largely responsible for the conceded victory of the Ohio Republican platform, is here for a thorough understanding with the secretary of war. He was with Mr. Taft at his offices for several hours, and at the Taft residence for a long time. Another conference is being held Tuesday and it is not unlikely the result will be brought to the attention of President Roosevelt.

Secretary Taft has made no secret of his position on the tariff. He is for revision at a special session of the Sixty-first congress, to be called immediately after the inauguration, March 4, 1909. His ideas as to what the tariff should be also are public property. The schedules should be drawn as near as possible to cover the difference between the lesser cost of production of a given article in foreign countries and the cost to produce that article in the United States. This he regards as "protection" in its true and fair sense.

Probable Tariff Plank.

Schedules which are fixed at a rate higher than this difference, he believes are not only unnecessary as means of protection, but are evil because of their temptation to capitalists to form monopolies and trusts in this country for the control of the market in that particular product. From this information, the prediction is declared to be a safe one that the tariff plank to be presented to the resolutions committee by the Taft adherents will follow closely the lines of the Ohio platform, with the added specifications regarding the manner of arriving at the amount of tariff which should be levied.

May Indorse Hepburn Bill.

Mr. Ellis is known to be heartily in favor of a plank stipulating that amendments should be made to the Sherman anti-trust laws, and Secretary Taft is known to be a thorough believer in the efficacy of trust control through federal laws. The embodiment of these ideas into a plank, which may take the form of an indorsement of the Hepburn bill, which died a peaceful death in the house judiciary committee, is said to be a safe prediction.

The conferences will not be restricted in their personnel, and it is believed that before the Taft platform is finally perfected for submission, the views of many of the party leaders will have been obtained.

A Hoodoo Apartment.
Countless fires have been set by the careless throwing away of lighted cigar and cigarette ends; but the most curious occurred in a London apartment, which happened to be so situated that twice the haphazard toss of cigarette stubs from a passing omnibus top carried them through an open window, and the place was set on fire. —Illustrated Sunday Magazine.

SAWYER & AUSTIN
TRIAL ADJOURNED

Judge Grimm Returned to Jefferson This Noon and Will Be Here Again on Thursday Morning.

It J. Davis, who built the eighteen-story Davis Exchange building in Chicago, came yesterday to give testimony in the trial of the Sawyer & Austin Lumber Co. vs. D. K. and P. J. Jeffers. The defendants, an subcontractors, agreed with operating their saw and door factory to furnish Mr. Davis with a quantity of window-jambals to be used in the construction of the above mentioned building. The jamba was to be delivered within a certain number of days, and it was alleged that with this understanding the local firm ordered a quantity of the saw and Austin Co., which is the firm for one of the enterprises of the Carrolls of La Crosse. The car was to have been shipped from Pine Bluff, Ark., on the 8th or 9th of July, but it was not until after the trial was over that it was learned that the car had arrived here on Aug. 25 at latest. It is alleged that it did not reach Chicago until Sept. 28. In the meantime the building contractor had to go ahead with his work and purchased lumber in Chicago, holding the local firm liable therefor. The cost to the latter was larger than what was to have been the original purchase price and when the Jeffers people refused, under the circumstances, to pay for the overpaid amount, the company commenced action to recover about $800. Today the trial of this case was adjourned to June 15. Judge Grimm returned to Jefferson at noon and will be back here Thursday morning, at which time the case of Sloan vs. Sloan is noticed for trial.

Farewell Surprise Party: A number of girl friends surprised Miss Maebel Archer at her home, 5 Logan street, last evening. A bounteous repast was served at the commencement of which Miss Archer was presented with a beautiful silver spoon. The forepart of the evening was spent indoors and the latter part on the lawn where they joined in playing numerous games. On departing all reported an enjoyable time.

Chief of Police Thedy Schell of Beloit, candidates for sheriff, brought a drink to the county jail this afternoon and immediately spent some time in the city looking after his political forces.
Threw Stones and Smeared Tar: Sometime last evening a coterie of bad boys threw a wheelbarrow load of stones at the Grundy warehouse and smeared the boards and fence-posts in that vicinity with tar. The officers have some rather direct clues to the identity of these youngsters and wholesale arrests will probably follow within the next day or two.

Began Work Today: Excavation work on the new building to be put up by J. M. Bowditch & Sons for the Parker Pen company and the Gazette was begun at 1 o'clock today, but not much progress was made. There was part of the old foundation left and considerable debris and garbage which will have to be removed before the real work of excavating can be begun.

Determination Conquers.

To a man with a will and a purpose there is nothing impossible. Such a man can do anything he can accomplish seeming miracles. Once he puts his shoulder to the wheel he never lets the spokes turn in a backward direction, but always pushes them onward and forward inch by inch until revolution by revolution until he rolls them to the top of the hill.

Trivial Cause of Suicide.

Matilda Corlano, a girl who recently took poison at Bologna, Italy, left a letter explaining that she had been driven to despair by her sweetheart's confession that his curly hair was not natural, but that he used curling tongs every morning.

POLICE ADVERTISE FOR DIAMOND RINGS

Valued at $250 Which Were Carelessly Left on North-Western Depot Washstand on Night of May 25.

In the hope that the party who took two jeweled rings, valued at $250, which were left on the marble washstand at the North-Western depot toilet room by "a prominent merchant's wife" a week ago Monday night, is only holding them with the expectation of returning them to the owner, the police department is advertising in the "Post and Journal" department of the Gazette. A well-dressed woman who was peering the platform pending the arrival of the 6:30 train from Minneapolis the same evening, accosted Officer Morrissey and asked him to write on a piece of paper the name of this town and also the "name of the depot." The prominent merchant's wife had not discovered her loss until after her train was underway for Chicago and the officer, of course, had no information on this matter and did not more than comply with the rather peculiar request. One of the rings was set with a single diamond and carried the engraved inscription: "P. S. L. to M. B. L." The other was "M. B. L. to M. B. L." The officer was puzzled, with two diamonds and a turquoise, if the unknown woman had anything to do with the disappearance of the rings. It is possible that in seeking for the name of the town she mediated and settled for local newspapers and after wearing by this means the address, returning the jewelry to the owner and claiming the reward. The police are not at liberty to disclose the name of the lady most interested.

WILL ENJOY SEEING A PANAMA ELECTION

Commander Frank Bostwick with the Buffalo Going to Panama for Election Polls.

As announced in Monday's Gazette, Frank Bostwick, U. S. N., has been ordered from his present station at Buffalo in charge of the Light House district to San Francisco, where he will take command of the auxiliary cruiser Buffalo and proceed to Panama, leaving San Francisco on June 7. Dispatches from Washington this morning explain why the Buffalo is to be sent to Panama at this time and if correct, the Buffalo will see some interesting sights in enforcing the laws of the country that the selection of President be strictly according to law. When the United States took possession of the Panama canal strip it also guaranteed a sort of protection to the little republic of Panama and enforcement of its laws, particularly as to elections. Their election comes in July and the Buffalo will doubtless take down a contingent of marines and land armed parties to see that this election is held strictly according to law, as there are rumors of a revolution and disturbances. Commander Bostwick is in Chicago today on his way west, his father, J. M. Bostwick, having gone down last night to see him.

FORMER JANESVILLE PASTOR TOOK PART

Reverend Sabin Halsey, Once Pastor of the Methodist Church Here, Helped Pursue the Murderer.

When Frank Paolo, the murderer of Mrs. E. H. Orvis, the Oakfield woman shot at the services of the Methodist church at Oakfield, tried to escape Reverend Sabin Halsey, for several years a well known Janesville pastor, and one of those who tried to arrest him. Ultimately the man was captured and placed in a cell, where he now admits the shooting, but claims he was insane when he did it or under a hypnotic spell. Mr. Halsey peculiarly refused the money offered several years ago but accepted the call of the Oakfield Methodist church which is located near his large farm upon which he lives. Mr. Halsey left Janesville many years ago, but has many friends in the city.

MARINES TO GUARD POLLS IN PANAMA

UNITED STATES WILL INSIST ON AN HONEST ELECTION.

TROUBLE IS THREATENED

Presidential Campaign Between Obaldia and Arias Developing Revolutionary Tendencies—Amador Assails the Latter.

Washington, June 2.—The Panama presidential campaign, which is to culminate in an election the first week in July, has recently developed "revolutionary tendencies" to such an extent as to cause grave concern and the serious intention to employ severe measures on the part of the American government to insure a fair and honest election, probably the first such in the history of Central American politics.

The 500 American marines stationed on the isthmus will be detailed on the two election days to the 100 polling places. As some of the precincts will need no armed supervision, and others may need more than a handful of troops, the marines will be distributed where they will do the most good in the way of preserving order.

Uncle Sam's Duty by Treaty.

Both by treaty and by special agreement, the Panama government has opened the way and made it the duty of the United States to insure a fair and honest election, and until the more recent development it was believed this could be accomplished by the presence of civilian American "commissioners" at the polling places. The plan to detail the marines has not been formally announced, but is said to be inevitable by those familiar with the situation.

The contest is between Vice-President Obaldia and Secretary of State Arias. At the time Obaldia was elected vice-president and Amador president the latter favored the presidential aspirations of Obaldia, who had previously been minister to the United States. The only function of a vice-president in Panama is to act as president during the absence of the chief executive, and shortly after his last election Amador took a six months' trip to Europe and Obaldia went to the head of the government.

Obaldia Stirred Up a Row.

These officials had been elected by the conservative or constitutional party, but the first act of Obaldia as president was to appoint Senior Diaz, brother of the leader of the liberal or defunct party, governor of the province of Panama. He then compelled Osorio, the deposed governor and brother of the wife of President Amador, to turn over to the government a large revenue he is alleged to have been turning into other channels.

He next compelled his present political opponent, Arias, to put up $40,000, as required by the constitution, just expired, through which Arias had controlled the market of Panama. Incidentally, it is explained here that Arias, who is one of the keenest business men on the isthmus, has control of the electric light concession, of the ice and meat business and other paying monopolies.

These evidences of reform in politics won to Obaldia the support of the liberal or progressive party, commonly known as the party of the negro and Indian, but it alienated the president and the vice-president, and upon the return of Amador this alienation became decidedly apparent. But in the meantime Obaldia had been endorsed also by the conservative or constitutional party for president.

Amador Helping Arias.

Arias entered the race as a conservative, and from his entry the machinery of the government has been operating busily in his behalf. The last move was the dismissal of three governors of provinces, all of them known to be friends of Obaldia. To still further hamper the chances of Obaldia, the administration has, since the departure of Secretary Taft from the isthmus, reduced the number of presidential electors from the province of Colon, where Obaldia is conceded to have many friends, and increased the number in several provinces known to be favorable to the election of Arias.

The call for a personal report from Minister Squires is the result, it is explained, of these new developments. At the same time, Mr. Squires may be asked to explain certain newspaper comment to the effect that he has allowed himself to become enthusiastic in favor of one of the candidates. Minister Squires called for the United States Tuesday.

BIG FAILURE IN MEMPHIS

GULF COMPRESS COMPANY IN HANDS OF RECEIVER.

Million-Dollar Concern in Financial Straits Owing to Combination of Circumstances.

Memphis, Tenn., June 2.—The Gulf Compress company, capitalized at $1,000,000, has been placed in the hands of a receiver. Its affairs are now being administered by C. C. Hanson, appointed by Judge John E. McCall of the United States court.

Abnormal conditions relative to the cotton crop, the recent car shortage, excessive litigation, including the anti-trust ouster suit in Mississippi, coupled with the inability to collect large amounts due, are held responsible for the bad financial condition which compelled the filing of an application for a receiver and general creditors' bill by several large stockholders of the corporation.

The plaintiffs to the bill, which has been declared a general creditors' bill by Judge McCall, are Henry W. Talmadge of New Jersey, William T. Miner of New York, Jacob Mann and D. J. McIntyre of Georgia, A. P. Churchill, H. F. Smith and C. Morce.

The bill sets forth that the company has liabilities of a pressing nature, involving large amounts, and that it is in arrears in rental for compresses and other property about $40,000. It is also stated that about $85,000 will be due on notes during next August and September.

The company, according to the bill, has paid $549,816.28 on real estate and improvements, while its machinery is valued at about $80,473.14. On the other hand, its holdings are mortgaged to the extent of $930,841.63 and $779,650 remains unpaid on improvements.

The plaintiff, Henry P. Talmadge, a member of the firm of Talmadge & Co., alleges the corporation is indebted for $370,100 loaned, most of which is secured by mortgages or collateral. The other creditors allege debts of $12,000 and under.

SHOCKING TRAGEDY ON FARM.

Man Slays His Wife, Two Children and Himself.

La Balle, Mo., June 2.—In a fit of insanity, Bert McMinn, foreman on the ranch of Whitmore Thomas, three miles northwest of here, Monday afternoon shot and instantly killed his wife, Mrs. Mamie McMinn, and his two small children, Opal, aged three, and Frank, aged six, and then, after setting fire to his clothing, went a bullet crashing through his brain. There were no witnesses to the tragedy. McMinn and his family came here about five months ago from Springfield, Mo., and little is known of their past history.

IOWA STATE-WIDE PRIMARY.

Chief Interest Is in the Cummins-Alison Contest.

Des Moines, Ia., June 2.—The political parties in Iowa will for the first time nominate their candidates for the November elections by a state-wide primary. Interest in the result centers in the contest among the Republicans, there being practically no fight for the different places on the ticket among the other parties; and among Republicans the chief interest lies in the fight made by Gov. A. B. Cummins against United States Senator William H. Allison for the nomination for the United States senatorship.

BALLOON CHICAGO IN FLIGHT.

Cozy and Party Start from Quincy and Go West.

Quincy, Ill., June 2.—The big balloon "Chicago" with Charles A. Coey, Charles H. Leichter and Capt. G. H. Cunningham left Quincy at six o'clock Monday night. A large crowd of people was at the point of flight. The balloon capacity is 110,000 feet of gas and the filling occupied six hours. The balloon is provisioned and ballasted with the expectation of a three days' journey. It crossed the Mississippi at 8:15 and was going due west at an altitude of about 2,000 feet.

I might say they have given me a new back. I will never forget the great relief I found through the use of Doan's Kidney Pills and I keep them always on hand, and whenever I feel that weakness in the back I appeal and they soon drive the trouble away."

NUTTY—MEALY—WHOLE

Please learn what a difference there is between home-baked beans and Van Camp's.

But don't deem it your fault, for it isn't.

We have spent 47 years in learning how to perfect this dish. This is our specialty—our one claim to supremacy. We bake tens of millions of cans every year.

No wonder we best know how.

Then we have the facilities, and you lack them all. So the difference isn't all in the skill.

Beans, to be digestible, must be factory cooked.

The heat of your oven is far from sufficient. It can't break up the food granules so the digestive juices can get to them. So home-baked beans are hard to digest, even for the strongest stomach.

Our ovens are heated to 245 degrees.

That's more than twice the heat that gets to the center of your baking dish. We apply that fierce heat for 90 minutes, and the result is our beans are digestible.

That is a very important fact.

Then we bake in live steam—not in dry heat. And we do our baking after the cans are sealed.

That's why our beans are all baked alike. No beans are crisped, no skins are broken. They are baked until they are mealy, yet they are nutty because they are whole.

Perhaps the one thing missed most in home-baked beans is that delicious, nutty flavor. Nobody likes beans mushy; everybody wants them whole.

Then we bake the beans, the tomato sauce and the pork all together, and get our delicious blend. To bake the tomato sauce into the beans is a very different thing from adding it afterwards.

Van Camp's come to you, fresh and savory, ready for instant serving. No work and no waiting. A dozen cans in the house mean a dozen meals all cooked. And such delicious meals! After all your work, your home-baked beans are never half so good.

VanCamp's

BAKED WITH TOMATO SAUCE

PORK AND BEANS

Once let your folks taste Van Camp's beans and they'll frown if you serve them others. That nutty flavor, that tang and zest, are missing in minor brands. Please learn how good beans can be. Then we shall not need to say again, "Insist on Van Camp's."

84% Nutriment

We Pay $2.50

Beans are Nature's choicest food—23 per cent nitrogenous; 84 per cent nutriment.

Like meat in their food value, but not like it in cost. See how many you get for 10 cents.

They should be a daily dish—not an occasional. They are appetizing and hearty; all people like them.

Perhaps you serve beans once a week now, because they are hard to prepare. Or because your people like other things better when beans are not rightly cooked.

'Twill be different when you serve Van Camp's.

You will serve them for breakfast—in croquettes or with ham. You'll serve them for luncheons—steaming hot. You'll serve them for dinners—in salad.

You will hardly be able to serve them too often, for people don't tire of Van Camp's.

Prices: 10, 15 and 20 cents per can

EVANSVILLE HIGH
DEFEATED BELOIT

High School Plays a Close and Exciting Game on Decoration Day.

Evansville, June 1.—The Evansville High School team won a close and exciting game of baseball from Beloit High School on Decoration day by a score of 2 to 1. The attendance was the largest that ever witnessed a high school contest in this city. Both teams played fast ball. Beloit had six errors counted against them, while Evansville had only two. Beloit and Evansville pitched masterful ball, the former allowing one scratch hit and the latter allowing two. The Evansville pitcher struck out thirteen men. Out of five high school games Evansville has lost only one, this being played at Milton, but the home team was more than made up for this latter by shutting out the same team 4 to 0. On June 13 the local High School will play the Whitewater High School. This is the most important game of the season, as the outcome practically decides the state championship among high schools. Leslie Hill narrowly escaped a serious accident yesterday afternoon at the Griffith farm about three miles east of this city, by falling from a hay mow in the barn to the floor, striking on his head. He was picked up in an unconscious condition and medical aid was secured at once. His uncle, H. H. Hill, had him removed last evening to the residence of George Wolfe on Garfield avenue. He is reported some better today and his recovery now seems certain, although at first it was feared that accident would prove a dangerous one.

Carl Fredericksen, aged eighty-eight years and four months, committed suicide last Friday forenoon at the home of his father-in-law, John Halvorsen, who resides about a mile this side of Cooksville. There seemed to be no evidence to show cause for the act, as he was apparently in good health and seemed in good spirits at breakfast Friday morning. When he did not appear at the dinner hour, his family became much alarmed, and he was found dead in his room, where he had taken his life by hanging himself to a bedpost. Funeral services were held at three o'clock Sunday afternoon at the home of John Halvorsen, Rev. Hegge of Stoughton officiating.

Miss Adelaide Evans of Grafton Hall, Fond du Lac, was entertained at a fraternity house in Madison Friday and Saturday and passed Sunday in Janesville with her parents.

The Victim of Drink

Needs Orrino Treatment

Drink first destroys ambition; breaks up ties of friendship; it kills and hurles love life.

Some of the best men in the world have been victims of drink and if there is not some member in your family who is indeed fortunate.

Drink ruinously destroys the will power, and while the drunkard wants to do what you tell him, he wants a thousand times more the drink that he craves.

Drunkness is no longer considered a crime; eminent scientists and physicians have agreed that it is a disease and must be treated as such.

The home treatment that has been used for a number of years, and is highly successful, is Orrino. It is sold under a positive guarantee that if it does not effect a cure your money will be refunded.

is so constructed that it cannot add perceptibly to the heat of a room; the flame being directed up a retaining chimney to the stove top where it is needed for cooking. Chapter Eight

THAT feverish month of July—fifteen years ago—had run full half its course. Madness had stricken the rulers of France. To avoid danger they rushed on destruction. Day madness spread through the veins of Paris. Perverse always, Lady Meg Duddington chose this moment for coming back to her senses, or, at least, for abandoning the particular form of insanity to which she had devoted the last five years.

One afternoon she called her wretched and her wretched, "You're a pair of quacks, and I've been an old fool," she said composedly, sitting straight up in her high backed chair. She hung a couple of thousand franc notes across the table. "You can go," she said, with contemptuous brevity. "Mind, evil temper broke out," he has done this, the malign one. Phoros was wiser. He had not done badly out of Lady Meg, and madness such as hers is apt to be recurrent. His farewell was gentle, his exit not ungraceful, yet he, too, prayed for the return of a certain influence. "Stuff! You don't know what you're talking about!" Lady Meg jerked out and pointed with her finger to the door.

Early on the morning of Sunday, the 17th, having received word through Lady Meg's maid that her presence was not commanded in the Rue de Grenelle, Sophy slipped around to the Rue du Due and broke in on Marie Zerkovitch, radiant with her great news and hurrying her friend to celebrate it by a day in the country.

"It means that dear old Lady Meg will be what she used to be to me!" she cried. "We shall go back to England, I expect, and— I wonder what that will be like!"

Her face grew suddenly thoughtful. Back to England! How would that suit Sophy? And what was to happen about Casimir de Sars? The peril of her long, sweet indecision was threatened with a forced conclusion.

Marie Zerkovitch was preoccupied against both her friend's joy and her friend's perplexity. Great affairs touched her at home. There would be war, she said, certainly war. Today the senate went to St. Cloud to see the emperor. Zerkovitch had started thither already on the track of news. The news in the near future would certainly be war, and Zerkovitch would follow the armies, still on the track of news. "He went before, in the war of sixty-six," she said, her lips trembling, "and he all but died of fever." That kills the correspondents just as much as the soldiers. Ah, it is so dangerous, Sophie, and so terrible to be left behind alone! I don't know what I shall do! My husband wants me to go home. He doesn't believe the French will win, and he fears trouble for those who stay here." She looked at last at Sophy's clouded face. "Ah, and your Casimir—he will be at the front!"

"Yes, Casimir will be at the front," said Sophy, a ring of excitement hardly suppressed in her voice.

"If he should be killed?" murmured Marie, throwing her arms out in a gesture of lamentation.

"You bird of ill omen! He'll come back covered with glory!" The two spent a quiet day together, Sophy helping Marie in her homely tasks. Zerkovitch's campaigning kit was overhauled—none knew how soon orders for an advance might come—his buttons put on, his thick stockings darned. The hours slipped away in work and talk. At 4 o'clock they went out and dined at a small restaurant hard by. Things seemed very quiet there. The fat waiter told them, with a shrug: "We shan't have much noise here tonight. The lady will be over there!" He pointed across the river. "They'll be over there most of the night, on the crowded boulevards. Because it's war, madame. Oh, yes, it's war!" The two young women slipped their coffee in silence. "As a lad I was 1839. I was out in the streets in 1871. What shall I see next?" he asked them as he swept his napkin over the marble table top. If he stayed at his post he saw many strange things. Unnatural does it his skies, and before his door his brother's blood.

The friends parted at half past 7. Marie hoped her husband would be returning home soon, and with news. Sophy felt herself due in the Rue de Grenelle. She reached the house there a little before 8. The concierge was not in his room. She went upstairs unseen and passed into the drawing room. The inner door, left, ing to the room Lady Meg occupied stood open. Sophy called softly, but there was no answer. She walked toward the door and was about to look into the room, thinking that perhaps Lady Meg was asleep, when she heard herself addressed. The Frenchwoman who acted as their cook had come in and stood now on the threshold, with a puzzled, distressed look on her face.

"I'm sorry, Mlle. Sophie, to tell you, but my lady has gone."

"Gone? Where to?"

"To England, I believe. This morning after you had gone out she ordered everything to be packed. It was done. She paid us here off, bidding me alone stay till orders reached me from M. le Marquis. Then she went. Only the concierge accompanied her. I think she started for Calais. At least, she is gone."

"She said—said nothing about me?"

"You'll see there's a letter for you on the small table in the window for you."

"Oh, yes! Thank you."

"Your room is ready for you tonight."

"I've dined. I shall want nothing, good night."

Sophy walked over to the little table in the window and for a few moments stood looking at the envelope which lay there, addressed to her in Lady Meg's sprawling hand. The stately room in the Rue de Grenelle seemed filled with a picture which its walls had never seen. Old words reached in Sophy's ears: "If I want you to go I'll put a hundred pound note in an envelope and send it to you, upon which you'll go, and no reasons given! It is agreed?" As if from a long way off she heard a servant girl answer, "It sounds all right." She saw the old elm trees at Morpington and heard the wind murmur in their boughs. Phinar chuckled, and Julia Hobbs' eyes were wet with tears.

"And no reasons given?" It had sounded all right—before five years of limbo and a life transformed. It sounded different now. Yet the agreement had been made between the strange lady and the eager girl. Nor were reasons hard to find. They stood out brutally plain. Having sent her prophet to the right about, Lady Meg wanted no more of her medium—her most disappointing medium. "They" would not speak through Sophy. Perhaps Lady Meg did not now want them to speak at all.

Sophy tore the envelope right across its breadth and shook out the filmy paper within. It was folded in four. She did not trouble to open it. Lady Meg was a woman of her word, and here was the hundred pound note of the Bank of England—"Upon which you'll go, and no reasons given." With a bitter smile she noticed that the note was soiled, the foldings old, the edges black where they were exposed. She had no doubt that all these years Lady Meg had carried it about, so as to be ready for the literal fulfillment of her bond.

"Upon which," said Sophy, "I go." The bitter smile lasted perhaps a minute more, then the girl dug herself into a chair in a fit of tears as bitter. She had served—or failed to serve—Lady Meg's mad purpose, and she was flung aside. Very likely she had grown hateful—she, the witness of insane whims now past and out of fashion. The abandoned might not be unnatural; but, for all their bargain, the manner was inhuman. "They had lived and eaten and drunk together for so long. Had there been no touch of affection, no softening of the heart? It seemed not—it seemed not." Sophy wept and wondered. "Oh, that I had never left you, Julia," she cries in her letter, and no doubt cried now, for Julia had given her a friend's love. If Lady Meg had given her only what one spurs for a dog—a kind word before he is banished, a friendly lament at parting!

Suddenly through the window came a boy's shrill voice, "Vive la guerre!"

Sophy sprang to her feet, caught up the dirty note and thrust it inside her glove. Without delay, seeming without hesitation, she left the house, passed swiftly along the street and made for the Pont Royal.

She was bound for the other bank and for the Boulevard des Tuileries, where Casimir de Sars had his lodgings. The stream of traffic set with her. She headed it not. The streets were full of excited groups, but there was no great tumult yet. Men were eagerly reading the latest editions of the papers. Sophy pushed on till she reached Casimir's house. She thrust herself into a chair in a fit of tears.

was known there. He'd condescended surprise to the concierge. It was not the proper thing, but he made no difficulty. He showed her to Casimir's sitting room, but of Casimir he could give no information save that he presumed he would return to sleep.

"I must wait—I must see him," she said, and as the man left her, she went to the window, flung it wide open and stood there, looking down into the great street.

The lights blazed now. Every seat at every cafe was full. The newspapers did a great trade. A wave of laughter, of talk, of infinite laughter rose to her ears. A loud voiced fellow was selling pictures of the king of Prussia, as he looks now, and as he will look! The second sheet never failed of a great success. Bands of lads came by with flags and warlike shouts. Some cheered them, more laughed and chimed. One broad faced old man she distinguished in the cafe opposite. He looked grim and sulky and kept arguing to his neighbor, winking a fat forefinger at him repeatedly. The neighbor shrugged bored shoulders. After all, he had not "in the war"—it was the emperor and...

Then at St. Cloud! As she watched, the air grew greater, the bands of marching students more frequent and noisy. "A Berlin!" they cried now, amid the same mixture of applause and tolerant amusement. A party of girls paraded down the middle of the street, singing "A laus les militaires." The applause grew to thunder as they went by, and the laughter broke into one great crackle when the heroines had passed.

She turned away with a start, consciousness of a presence in the room. Casimir came quickly across to her, throwing his helmet on the table as he passed. He took her hands. "I know, Lady Meg wrote to me," he said. "And you are here?"

"I have no other home now," she said. With a light of joy in his eyes he kissed her lips.

"I come to you only when I'm in trouble," she said softly.

"It is well," he answered and drew her with him back to the window. Together they stood, looking down. "It is war, then?" she asked.

"Without doubt it's war—without doubt," he answered gravely. "And beyond that no man knows anything."

"And you?" she asked.

He took her hands again, both of hers in his. "My lady of the red star?" he murmured softly.

"And you?"

"You wouldn't have it otherwise?"

"Heaven forbid! God go with you, as my heart goes! When do you go?"

"I take the road in an hour for Strasbourg. We are to be of MacMahon's corps."

"In an hour?"

"Yes."

"Your preparations—are they made?"

"Yes."

"And you are free?"

"Yes."

"I have an hour now—and all the campaign," said he.
